DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 3, 4, 6, and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claims 3 and 6, the term "balloon type airbag" is vague and indefinite, since the structural limitations implied by the term is not clear. In claims 4 and 8, the term "side curtain type airbag" is vague and indefinite, since the structural limitations implied by the term is not clear.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lewis et al in view of Schneider.

Lewis et al disclose a method "for mitigating toe strike in a cockpit of an aircraft" which includes providing an airbag module which activates upon the beginning of an ejection sequence and provides an airbag to protect a pilot's lower limbs. The airbag deployed comprises both a side and a front airbag sections. See especially Figure 6, and column 2, line 17-56. Lewis et al fail to show the airbag module for protecting the lower limbs as being positioned on an instrument panel. Schneider teaches that it is well known to provide an airbag for the protection of the lower limbs on an instrument panel of a vehicle. The Schneider airbag could be combined with Lewis et al either as a replacement for the leg protection portion of the airbag or it could supplement the airbag of Lewis et al. Motivation to combine is either the added protection of more knee protection or the mere movement of the position of the airbag's undeployed position while maintaining the same deployed function. To employ the teaching of Schneider on the protection system of Lewis et al and provide an airbag in the claimed positions on an instrument panel is considered to have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art.

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Gee, Sr. is cited as being of interest since it disclose an airbag protection system.
